Press Release

The Metal Treating Institute (MTI) presented its annual Leadership and Service Awards this past October at its Fall Meeting in Williamsburg, Virginia. MTI is proud to announce that Harry Hall, from Aberfoyle Metal Treaters in Ontario, Canada won the industry's most prestigious award, the Heritage Award. This award is given in "recognition to an individual's lifetime commitment to the betterment of the commercial heat treating industry with one or more notable accomplishments." Mr. Hall's company has been a member of MTI since 1989 with him serving in numerous capacities on committees, task force groups, the Board of Trustees as well as becoming President of the Institute in 2002.

The Metal Treating Institute is the largest network of heat treaters in the world with plants in 38 states and 6 countries. Established in 1933, MTI is a non-profit trade association that provides information resources, training and business services to its members to help members provide an educated workforce, develop leaders, expand their markets, decrease their cost of doing business and regulatory compliance.
